The Media Co-op is your source for local, grassroots, independent news and information across Canada.

Reader-funded and collectively run, the Co-op creates a space for critical, democratic journalism across the country, through our local co-ops in Vancouver, Montreal, Toronto and Halifax, and our bi-monthly magazine, The Dominion.

The Media Co-op is also an open newswire, where you can post news updates alongside articles by experienced journalists, and video/audio reports created by an active collective.

More than a website, the Media Co-op provides support and media training for community groups, activists and social movements. Our news coverage comes from the grassroots, and builds public understanding of movements and power structures.
